

Dear Southern California friends and family,

As you may know, our family has been participating in competitive forensics this year. We plan to attend a tournament in San Diego at the first of the year, hosted by Ex Nihilo Speech and Debate Club,

If you would be interested in helping - please save the date!

- When: Thursday, January 5th - Saturday, January 7th
- Where: Point Loma Nazarene University - 3900 Lomaland Dr, San Diego
- What: Come and judge students from around the state in speech and/or debate competitions, take in the views from the beautiful PLNU campus, and enjoy refreshments courtesy of the tournament team.
- Who: No previous experience needed -- all training is provided!
- How: Volunteer for one (or more) 3-hr session that will include judge orientation, one round of competition, and ballot completion. Registration will open Nov 25th online at:
<https://ex-nihilo.homeschooldebate.net/judges>
- Why: Your feedback to our students will help them to develop and sharpen their communication skills, preparing them for whatever God's calling in their lives will be.

A key component to a successful tournament is to bring in as many judges from the community as we can. Community judges bring a fresh perspective to the work our children have accomplished and we are inviting you to come and judge a round or two on our behalf. Please ask if you have any questions, and let us or Ex Nihilo know if you'd be willing to help.

Thank you for your support!

email: plc@nihilo.club with any questions.

We are happy to help connect you for this great event!
